

Patching up the old, worn out deck! March/April 2004

Thanks to Bruce offering to do the rebuilding of our tired old deck out back, we now can enjoy it for a few more years.

Bruce came over to work on it on his lunch hour and evenings after work. What a great job he did! His wife Chery even came over with him one evening.

Fred was a big help too with rebuilding the warped steps!

Figuring out which way to go with building the new steps turned out being the most troublesome move of the entire project. We finally decided (on Bruce's suggestion), instead of using either the three step or four step 'ready built' stringers, to make our own and use cleats to support the steps. Worked great.

Turned out pretty nice but by night time, there were three pretty tired workers!
